Hello

It's a month of entertainment fit for a king! May is coming, headlined by a star-filled drama set during one of the US Capitol's most earth-shattering eras. Woody Harrelson and Justin Theroux are the men who inadvertently toppled the Nixon presidency in The White House Plumbers.

On Sky Arts Bill Bailey takes on the task of finding the next generation of Britain's finest craftspeople in Bill Bailey's Master Crafters: The Next Generation, and we're getting flipped-turned upside down once again as Sky Max presents the second season of Bel-Air.

Over on Sky Cinema, we've got a revenge-filled thriller from the writer of Top Boy in the Sky Original film Dead Shot, and finally, Sky Sports is bringing you all the action from the final games of the 2022/23 Premier League as Arsenal look to be crowned champions for the first time since 2004.

Premier League

We've reached the conclusion to a thrilling season, with Arsenal poised to capture the Premiership title for the first time since 2004. Should everything go as expected, it will be the Premiership trophy's first spell in London since Chelsea's win in 2017. While the Gunners look to sew things up at the top of the table, things are extremely tight at the bottom end. All teams from position 12 and below in the table are in the conversation for relegation, with dire seasons from teams like Southampton, Bournemouth, West Ham, and Crystal Palace all putting them in danger from a spell in the EFL Championship. How close to the wire will it be?

US PGA Championship

We're on to the second Major of the year as we head to the Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa, Oklahoma for the US PGA Championship. Last year, Justin Thomas was able to win the event for a second time, coming from seven shots behind to eventually defeat Will Zalatoris in a playoff to mark one of the biggest comebacks in PGA Championship history.

Formula 1

The Formula One season hots up with three dates on the racing calendar in May. We kick things off in the Sunshine State as we don our coolest sunglasses for the second Miami Grand Prix. Last season the inaugural race was won by World Champion Max Verstappen in his third chequered flag of the season. We're then heading to Italy for the Emilia Romagna Grand Prix, which – stop me if you've heard this one before – was won by Verstappen for the second consecutive year. And finally, it's the most glamorous race of the season as we hit the streets for the Monaco Grand Prix. Last year saw the local hero Charles Leclerc take pole, but finish in fourth following a strategy error, with Red Bull's Sergio Perez taking home the win.

Women's Super League

It's the end of the season for the Barclays Women's Super League, with everything still to play for. A few scant points are all that separates Chelsea and Manchester United at the top of the table, with the Reds in the best position in years to stop the London side from winning the league for the fourth consecutive year.
